JOHN K. WALSH

John K. Walsh, Vice President & Manager

John Walsh, Vice President of U.S. Bank's International Banking Group, is currently the Country Manager for South Asia, The Middle East, and Africa and is responsible for all sovereign and bank risk in this area.

John received his BA from Dickinson College with a major in comparative religion and an MBA from the University of Washington with concentrations in both Finance and International Business. Prior to joining U.S. Bank, he served as the Chief Financial Officer for Cruising Equipment Company, a high-growth, high-tech company in Seattle, and as an International Lending Officer at Seattle First National Bank. John is also a graduate of the Pacific Rim Bankers Program, an Executive Program at the University of Washington.

John publishes a newsletter entitled "Global Markets Update" that is available through an email distribution list, and gives presentations to trade groups and corporate clients to inform them of current events in emerging markets and develop appropriate international strategies. He has been a guest lecturer at numerous colleges and universities, including the University of Washington, Seattle Pacific University, North Seattle Community College, and Everett Community College.

In addition to his extensive banking experience and broad education, John's personal interests are also wide-ranging and include musical studies in Classical Piano and Mountain Dulcimer.
